

Judge questions truth of officer's testimony

A police officer's court testimony is being called into question after the father of two alleged gang members claims he was harassed, wrongfully accused and his car illegally searched.

This week, a judge found Fuk Kiun (Richard) Chin not guilty of driving his car while disqualified. A 10-page verdict issued by Judge Cheryl Daniel rebukes Sgt. Dave Ellement, calling his testimony against the accused "hollow and worrisome" and "disquieting."

"I have two versions of events that are so vastly different that it means one or the other of Sgt. Ellement or the accused is lying."
